

MAD Daze 5!

The Music, Art and Drama camp for children is back for another run for its fifth year, being held on June 25-29 (9am-1pm), for children entering 1st through 5th grade. The cost is only $50 for the week's activities. There is no break for early registration, as costs were not covered well with the early break last year, sorry... But still a bargain with the quality of leadership. The team is set and working for this year's edition. The returning team includes Dana Peele with art, Winston Sims with theater and Lynn Mitchell leading the music component. The theme this year is in production and planning stages. A wrinkle this year: children are asked to bring a sack lunch. Drinks and snacks will be included in the registration fee.

Lynn Mitchell - Our Music Leader

Lynn Mitchell is director of Choral Activities at Sun Valley High School, and has been teaching music at various levels in the public schools for over 30 years. She has extensive background in elementary music, and her choirs earn numerous high ratings in competition, with some students participating in national choirs. She is married to the pastor of MSPC, and is the proud parent of three adult children, and loves to talk about musicals.

Winston Sims - Our Drama Leader

Winston Sims has been teaching theater arts at Marvin Ridge High School since 2008. He graduated from UNCG twice with a BFA in Theater Education and an MEd in Theater. He has been active in many theater productions in the area including Matthews Playhouse. Winston and his wife Alexandra, who is the music director at MorningStar Presbyterian, have a young daughter, Veda Grace.

Dana Peele - Our Art Leader

Dana Peele teaches in Union County at Rock Rest Elementary School and has more than 15 years of experience teaching elementary art. She graduated from Appalachian State University with a degree in art education and she is National Board certified in middle childhood art. She is an active member of Matthews Presbyterian Church. She and her husband Jason are parents to their daughters Charlotte and Katie.
